The European Union Centre in Taiwan

For the purpose of encouraging studies of the European Union and academic and civil society exchanges and cooperation globally, the European Union (EU), in 1998, began establishing European Union Centres at prestigious universities in developed countries around the world. There are currently thirty-five such centres and two programs around the world: ten are located in the USA, six are in Russia, five are in Canada, four are in Japan and another four are in Korea, three are in Australia, while New Zealand, Taiwan and Singapore each hosts one centre. Hong Kong and Macao each hosts one program. Despite variations in name, each centre is formed with a mandate from the European Union. It not only acts as a platform for exchanges and cooperation within its host country, but also creates linkages among other such centres to establish global and regional networks to support EU Studies. On 22 September 2008, the European Union Centre in Taiwan (EUTW) Consortium Universities was established, led by National Taiwan University and including National Chengchi University, National Chung Hsing University, Fu Jen Catholic University, Tamkang University, National Sun Yat-Sen University, and National Dong Hwa University. On 22 May 2009, the European Union Centre in Taiwan was formally inaugurated.
